

“ There really aren't any words to describe how wonderful this experience was. There were so many people that we met with many different stories, all of which taught different lessons, and whom all had loving hearts and treated us like their own kids. All of the experiences we had there made me see how there are many different sides to people and made me feel a type of love that I've never felt before, and I wouldn't trade that experience for anything.

It was a life changing experience that I would definitely recommend to someone else and would do it again one hundred percent, and glad I was able to be a part of it.

It honestly changed my life meeting all the people from The Dwelling and the other youth, and if I was asked to do it again, I would say 'yes' in a heartbeat.

I think I had a lot of fun meeting new people and helping people as well. Also knowing what I did was helping someone made me feel good on the inside.
